

Brattleboro Gas Works

This is the site of the old Brattleboro coal gas manufacturing facility. There is a limited area with soil and groundwater contamination as most of the wastes were probably disposed of directly in the CT river. The river has been investigated by property owner under the authority of the State of New Hampshire,

On site contamination is limited to the soils and groundwater directly adjacent to the plant. These pose no environmental risk and deed restrictions are being developed to prevent digging in this area. Deed restrictions and groundwater monitoring are the remedies at this site.
